

Locked up

04/19/07 Cortland Standard

Photo provided by Karen Purcell

The third annual Western Day at Northwoods at Cortland was held on April 13. The day is one of the biggest activities the facility does. It is a huge hit with all of the staff and residents. Each year the facility posts a few "Wanted Dead or Alive" signs in the hallway with pictures of various staff members. Wanted this year was the rehab director, nurse manager and MDS coordinator. Resident sheriff Patrick Hoover and one of the deputies went looking for them to put them behind bars. Their bail was bingo prizes for the residents. Shown in the photo behind bars is Lee Joyner, the rehab director, in disguise.